I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

This bill does not appear to implicate any of the House Principles.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Current Law

The Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act (FDUTPA)¹ was enacted "[t]o protect the consuming public and legitimate business enterprises from those who engage in unfair methods of competition, or unconscionable, deceptive, or unfair acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce."²

Businesses and individuals are afforded broad protection from unfair or deceptive acts or practices under the FDUTPA. The FDUTPA states a broad proscription that applies through civil enforcement across industries and business conduct generally in any medium. The FDUTPA, Part II of ch. 501, F.S., provides remedies and penalties for "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce..."

Under the FDUTPA, the Attorney General or other enforcing authority may bring an action on behalf of a consumer⁴ and seek the appointment of a receiver⁵ or fiduciary to seek redress. A receiver only has the powers given to him or her by statute or by order of appointment.⁶ Under most circumstances, it is the receiver's duty to safeguard the property in his or her custody and to protect the rights and interests of all claimants while still maintaining neutrality.⁷ A receivership allows the court to accomplish "complete justice," with the goal of providing protection to the property at issue until the final disposition of the matter.⁸ An appointment of a receiver is an equitable question and not a matter of right.⁹ Typically, the appointment of a receiver is an ancillary remedy and can only be obtained in connection with some other action to obtain a specific relief.¹⁰

It is unclear whether under the FDUTPA a receiver or other court-appointed person has standing to bring a proceeding on behalf of defendants against a third party who may have an involvement in the wrongdoing.

Effect of Bill

The bill authorizes a court to permit actions in the name of and on behalf of the defendant enterprise. This would allow a receiver or other court-appointed person to address wrongdoing by filing suit on behalf of a defendant, such as a corporation over which the receiver has been appointed, against a third party who played some role in the alleged wrongdoing.
